KOTA KINABALU: Universiti Malaysia Sabah (UMS) has been ranked 211th in the Quacquarelli Symonds (QS) World University Rankings: Asia 2020.

According to a statement by UMS, Thursday, the ranking announced on the QS' website saw UMS ranked among the top 38 per cent of the best 557 higher learning institutions in Asia.

"This is an impressive improvement compared to top 41 per cent in 2019 and top 53 per cent in 2018," it said in the statement.

"It is the result of the continuous improvement efforts taken by all quarters in UMS."

It added, the ranking involved 11 indicators, and UMS, to date, had performed well in three indicators – international academic staff, inbound exchange students and international research network.

"UMS will continue to strive for global excellence, and aims to reach the top 100 in Asia in the next three years," it said.
