KENINGAU: Universiti Malaysia Sabah (UMS) may offer more off-campus programmes for students in the interior if there is enough demand, according to its Keningau off-campus programme coordinator Nik Zaitun Nik Mohamed.

Speaking at a UMS roadshow here, she said UMS is already offering two such bachelors with honours programmes (Teaching of English as a Second Language, and Sports Science) in Keningau.

UMS opened its off-campus centre here in the middle of last year, and 17 students are now attending weekend classes at the Institut Perguruan Keningau.

Of the 500-plus students in the 2002 session, most have finished their courses and will attend their convocation this year, she said, adding application forms for the July 2007 intake may be obtained from the UMS consultancy and training unit (UPRL) in Kota Kinabalu, Sandakan or Tawau, the closing date being March 15.

Meanwhile, District Officer Zulkifli Nasir in his speech at the launch of the roadshow said education is the main asset for personal growth and contributes to the development of the interior.
