KOTA KINABALU: The Graduate Literature Club (Karma) of Universiti Malaysia Sabah (UMS) here recently held the Sembang Kopi Programme at the Ahmad Nesfu SPS Theatre.

The event received good response from the students due to Khalil Sabu, former UMS President of Student Council, Fairuz Fadhilah Hamidi, present President of Student Council and Jumrat Minsun, Deputy President.

Dubbed "coffee talk", it discussed the intellect and self-resilience of the students.

The panel members were also questioned on issues within the campus that are affecting the students.

Jumrat said some students don't analyse issues regarding the people or issues within the campus.

He said students nowadays tend to look at things from their perspective only.

"They do not want to accept other views and sometimes only give their views without much analysis about the matter," he said.

Some lecturers, he said failed to understand why students are involved in other commitments apart from academics.

Because of that, he said, some students decided not to take part in other activities resulting in them being uninterested in other things.

Former student leader, Khalil Sabu, said the most important is how students make themselves heard.

The school's administration, on the other hand, he said, must explain the issues to the students.

Fairuz said the students must be aware that if they criticise an issue, they must include resolutions or ways to resolve it.
