

Volunteers picking up rubbish at the Tanjung Lipat Bay in Kota Kinabalu recently.

Tanjung Lipat Bay gets a clean-up

NSTS 17/12/2013 6

KOTA KINABALU: Volunteers helped to transform dirty Tanjung Lipat Bay into a clean beach recently.

University Malaysia Sabah (UMS) students took the initiative to clean up the beach. They spent three hours picking up rubbish along the bay in Likas, near here.

Besides the students, 30 other volunteers, comprising locals and foreigners, also took part in the initiative.

UMS student Wong Jiunn Yi said the beach appeared abandoned, with no facilities and littered with rubbish.

He said it was important to keep the beach clean as people may prefer to have a picnic or go for a walk there.

"There are many vehicles that pass by Tanjung Lipat daily while on the way to 1Borneo Hypermall, Indah Permai, King Fisher, Sulaman and UMS. If the beach is dirty, it will give Kota Kinabalu a bad image."

For information about the volunteers' activities, visit their Facebook page at Kota Kinabalu Volunteers.