KOTA KINABALU: Universiti Malaysia Sabah's (UMS) annual Vedantanggal program is very helpful in assisting new students adjust to life in the university, said MIC Sabah chief Datuk V Jothi.

Jothi said the program which is organised by the Sekretariat Kesenian, Kebudayaan dan Warisan India (SEKWI) of UMS, also helped the new students establish closer rapport with their seniors in the higher learning institute.

Speaking at the annual Vedantanggal program recently, Jothi reminded the students that they must learn to adapt themselves to their life in the university.

"Your fellow students here are multi-racial and multi-religious, therefore we need to adapt and strengthen unity as well as ties with everyone," he said.

"I was told that Vedantanggal is a program solely for the juniors so that they can create bond with the seniors and among their batchmates and most importantly, to find new talents among the juniors.

"I strongly believe this is the right program for the juniors as they will be able to build a good relationship among their peers as well as showcase their talents," he pointed out.

"Skills like communicative and social skills are important when you graduate, therefore Vedantanggal is a good platform to enhance and improve yourselves," he said.
