UMS strives in getting international accreditation

DE 29.3.2019 12

KOTA KINABALU: Universiti Malaysia Sabah (UMS) strives to achieve academic excellence in various fields by acquiring various international achievements and accreditation.

UMS Vice-Chancellor Prof. Datuk Dr D Kamarudin D Mudin explained that the effort encompasses aspects of learning and teaching, research and publications, social services, and specialisation in the knowledge and development of student personality.

"It is in line with the expectation of the university to become an institution that specialises in training and producing human resources that are capable of meeting the rapid development of future (future-proof human resources).

"At the same time, it enables the university to create human capital that is willing to contribute towards the progress of the global community and the nation," he said.

He said this during the launching of the Knowledge and Language Rearing Centre

(PBIB) with the theme "Meet & Greet, Local, International Students and Postgraduates" at UMS, here, Tuesday.

Kamarudin's speech was delivered by Assistant Vice-Chancellor Prof Dr Marcus Jopony.

According to Kamarudin, UMS is always committed to achieve the highest quality standards in both academics and non-academics.

"When UMS was first established, the university has produced human resources, experts and professionals in various fields.

"With the vision of delivering high quality education to local and global students, undergraduate and postgraduate students have been receiving guidance and learning opportunities in an environment that values talent and innovation," he explained.

The Open Day Programme held from March 26 to 29 comprised of various activities including blood donation campaign, stalls, exhibitions, cultural events, and international student performances.
