KOTA KINABALU: Universiti Malaysia Sabah (UMS) management will work together to make its Student Representative Council's (MPP's) hereditary initiative come true.

UMS vice chancellor Prof Datuk Dr Taufiq Yap Yun said the university had selected members of the MPP who could bring good to all the UMS students.

"We will strengthen the cooperation of the MPP and the university management to provide benefits to all students and also in terms of university operations," he said during the presentation of the appointment letter ceremony to the MPP 2020/2021 members at the university here yesterday.

"We also hope that the MPP members will learn to be good leaders as they will be the country's leaders in the future," he added.

Newly appointed MPP president, Razman Durhan said the new council lineup will improve and create new ways to achieve the goals inherited from the past MPPs.

"The planning or direction brought by the UMS Student Representative Council for the 2021 session is more about things that lead to the togetherness that is related to empowering the rights of people with disabilities, enhancing women's involvement in organizations, improving or maintaining the student economy ecosystem and also related to the further improvement or creation of an initiative to help the student's welfare," said Razman.

"Of course, this is something the Student Representative Council has been fighting for for generations and the matter, I believe, has been improved each time from one session to another," he added.
