On the department's readiness for any possibility with the expected mass movement of people during the coming Hari Raya Aidilfitri celebration in the State, Dr Rundi hopes they would fulfil their responsibility even during Hari Raya as the fight against Covid-19 is not over yet.

"I hope the Raya celebration will not be like before we had Covid-19. The pandemic changes the way we celebrate. We are still facing this outbreak, which require all to have great level of awareness while they are celebrating. We are ready, but I would also like to ask everyone to be ready to share the responsibility together. We are still trying to curb the pandemic," she said.
